BACKPACKING

ORCA

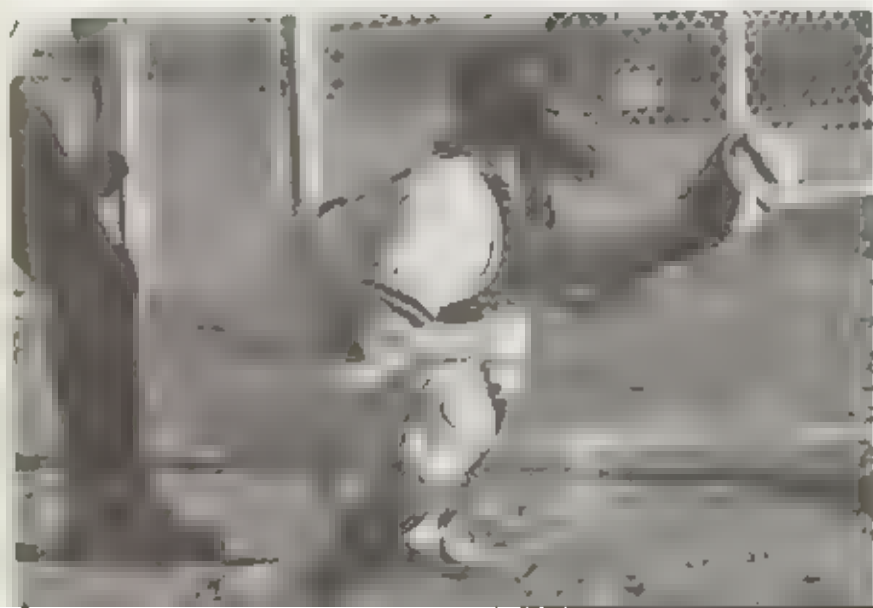

The Loyola Backpacking Club offers the outdoor-lovers a chance to find others of the same bent and to plan hiking and camping trips. With moderator Fr. John Brady, S.J., member frequently hike in the near-by Angelus National Forest, and there, there share their skills and experience to become better prepared climbers. The beauty of the mountain wilderness is experienced by the students, and thus, a love and greater appreciation of the outdoors is achieved.

VARSITY

BASKETBALL

VARSIITY del rey co-champs

This year was a good year for the basketball team. The team piled up a 24-5 record before losing in the playoffs. The most popular of all the games had to be the two with the Del Rey League co-champs Daniel Murphy. The first game saw Loyola leading 49-48 at the half. The second half turned into a defensive battle, where the packed house was roaring in support of their teams. Loyola lost a heartbreaker, 63-60. The second game was just as close except this time Loyola won, 69-65.

BICYCLE CLUB

The Loyola High Bicycle Club sponsored a number of trips during the year. The outings, which are held during vacations and long weekends, have taken members to such places as San Diego. The Easter vacation found the Club in Oregon, as they biked through scenic sections of the Beaver State during the one week intermission. The group tours on their bicycles and camps on their route.

Membership is open to all students who have bicycles meeting the requirements of the club's moderator, Fr. Francis Conn, S.J.

Active Members: Alfred Nakasuma, President; Mike Bruno, Vice President; Hugh Haggerty; John Kimball; Cherif Nassour; Carl Plat; Dave Tanaka; Joseph Yellen; Fr. Francis Conn, S.J., moderator.

BOWLING

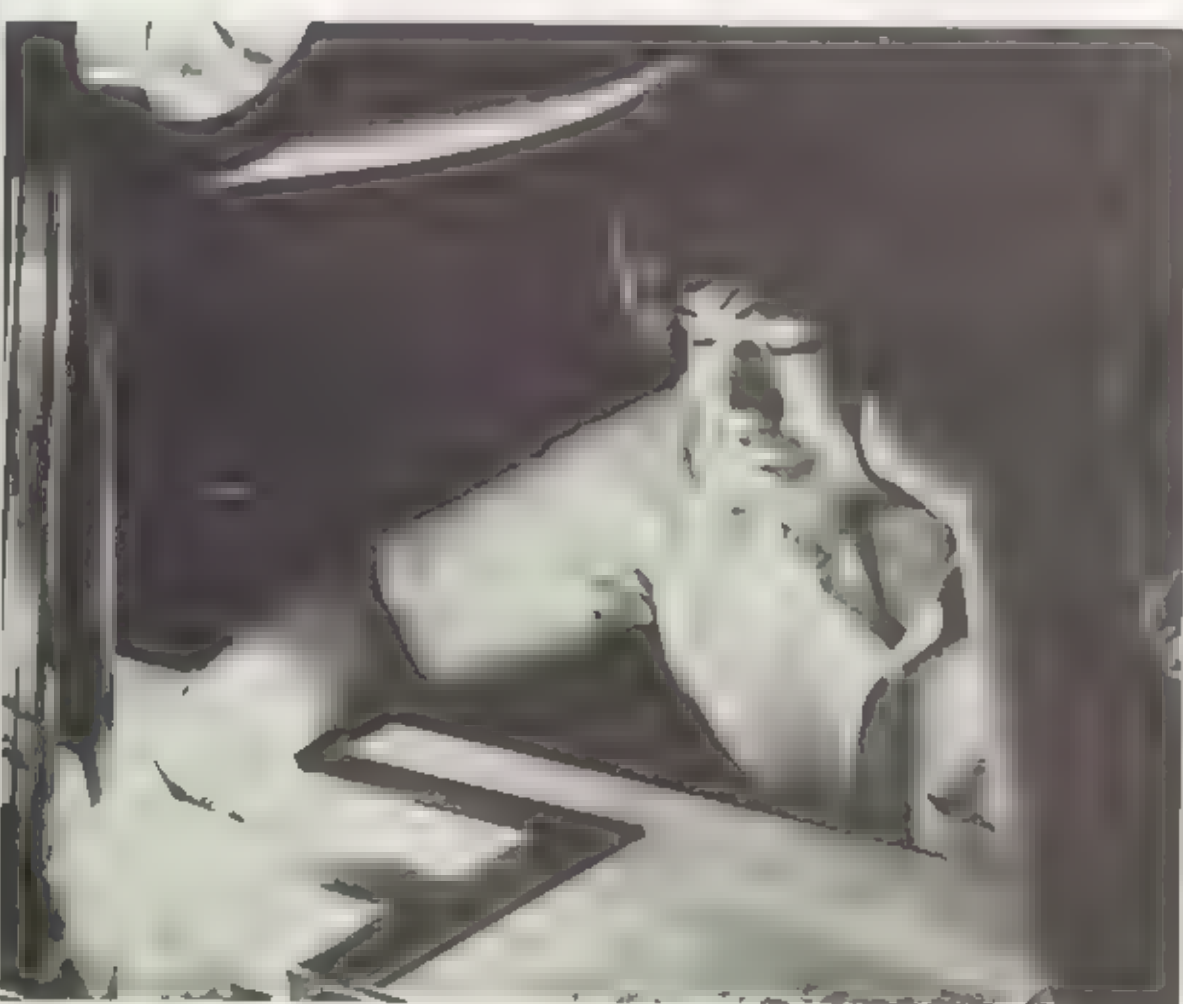

The Bowling Club is one of those strange clubs that are heard, but never seen. Under its quiet exterior lurks an active and enthusiastic club. Meeting every Thursday at Western Bowling, the club gets together and has a ball! Holding their own intra-club tournament every semester, the members, both student and faculty, organize themselves into teams and vie for the title. Awards are given for the best student-faculty team, highest individual score, and the highest team score. Fr. John Wiggins S.J. moderates the club and, under his guidance, the club has had a successful past, and no doubt has a bright future as one of Loyola's most active and enjoyable clubs.

Members: Mr. John Adams, Luis Agregan, Duane Butler, Joseph Beard, Mr. Phil Faist, Kenneth Gaitan, Jim Hannon, Kelly Howe, Kevin Howe, John Kallie, Stephan Katayama, Cherrif Nassour, John Orozco, Rod Powe, John Roussell, Nick Ryder, David Sheppard, Andy Smatko, Dennis Sugiyama, Vince Torres, Mark Vitali, John Vitali, Fr. John Wiggins, S.J., Ron Yaminy.

CLUB

The CAM coordinators, under the direction of Fr. James Rude, S.J., oversee the different social justice activities of the Christian Action Movement.

CHRISTIAN ACTION MOVEMENT

CAM is a Saturday afternoon playing football with juvenile offenders at Camp David Gonzales. It is slaving over a hot stove and watching a smile brighten up the face of a homeless alcoholic as he eats his meal. It is sharing a cup of coffee and a donut and rapping for a while with outcoming prisoners. But mostly, CAM is realizing that there are hundreds of thousands who need love and Christian action.

With various student activities, CAM maintains an image of social involvement at Loyola. From day to day, these activities provide an opportunity for action. But CAM is not only action as its name suggests. CAM is a feeling. CAM is the sense of community and concern we try to promote in ourselves and in our community. This concern hopefully transcends whatever actions a student may take during his four years at Loyola. It is our hope that this Christian Action Movement has been a beginning.

The CAM Coordinators

A highlight of the CAM activities this year was the Christmas Party for students of St. Thomas. CAM coordinators and numerous student volunteers helped cater a party menu and entertained the grammar school children for an enjoyable and educational morning.

CAM

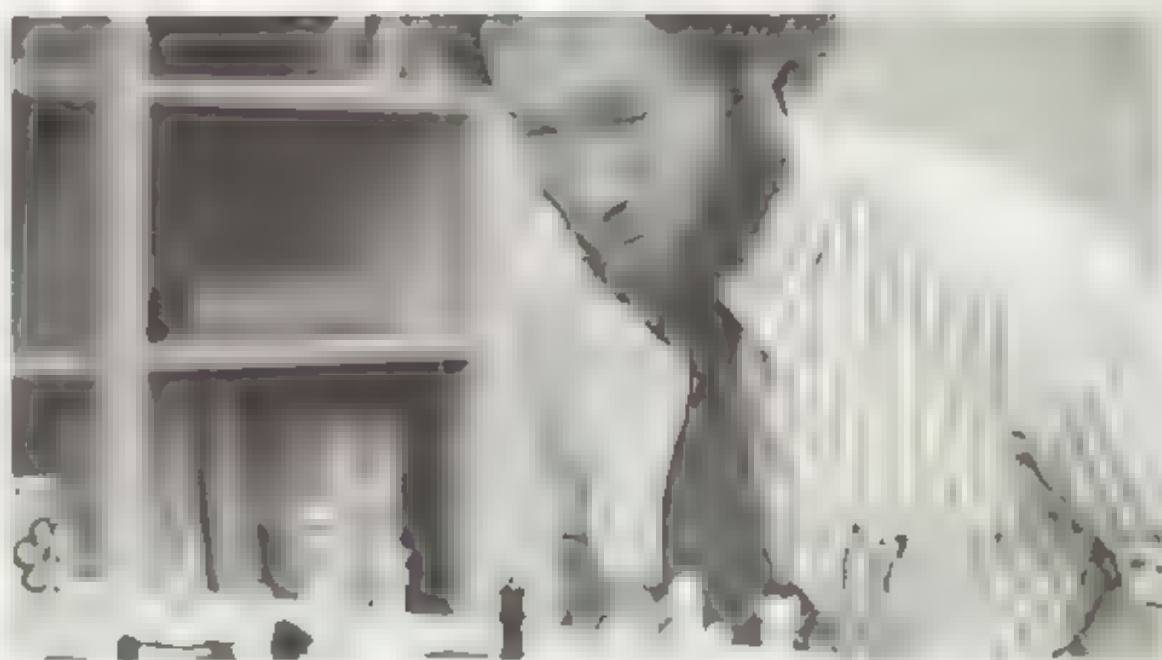

Besides the active community involvement of the Loyola students, a concerned group also publishes the FORUM FOR JUSTICE, a monthly newspaper which seeks to educate the students and all its readers. The paper covers the major social, moral and religious issues of the day, which range from abortion to nonviolence. John Chandler and Lee O'Connor co-edit the publication, with Pat Sinclair acting as associate editor.

CHESS CLUB

Every Monday and Tuesday during lunch, the strategists of Loyola clash under the direction of Mr. Alan Martin. The meetings allow those students who enjoy the challenge and cunning of chess to test and compare their skills. Reaching beyond the talent at Loyola, Mr. Martin led some of his members into interscholastic competition in which the Loyola students fared well. Not limited to the twice-weekly meetings, the chess enthusiasts can be seen around campus matching their wits and displaying that their dedication and love for the game cannot be checkmated.

CLC

Christian Life Communities

The CLCs are an attempt to awaken the true spirit of Christianity and to carry this spirit throughout the Loyola community and beyond. There are eleven CLCs, each with about ten students and a faculty member. They employ various types of activities, such as spiritual retreats, discussions, and concerted Christian action, in order to realize a greater sense of awareness, sensitivity, and apostolic spirit. The CLC movement was formed to create a Christian community where people can make a difference in each others lives. Hopefully, CLC members realize their own special place in the world and the Christian community and, therefore, seek to serve not only themselves, but the society around them.

The Stage Crew and the Drama comprise the active driving force behind every stage production presented at Loyola. The Stage Crew is a collection of devoted workers whose job it is to manage the mechanical aspect of every play. The responsibilities of the production are divided among the Production, Prop, Lighting, Sound, Wardrobe, and House Managers, as well as the Master Carpenter. This year, as in the past, Loyola's Drama Club has striven for excellence and has achieved it, as was demonstrated by the superior productions this past season.

Loyola High Cubs

The football team had a good year under the direction of head coach Steve Grady and the assistant coaches Jon Dawson, Lyle Egan, Ed Hearn, and Bill Herman. At the beginning of the season there was a question in many people's minds of how the team would do. The team soon showed that it was a tough match for any opponent by beating Banning, who went on to win the City 4-A crown. Many players found themselves on the All Del Rey League team including Bob Woolway who was also voted All-American.

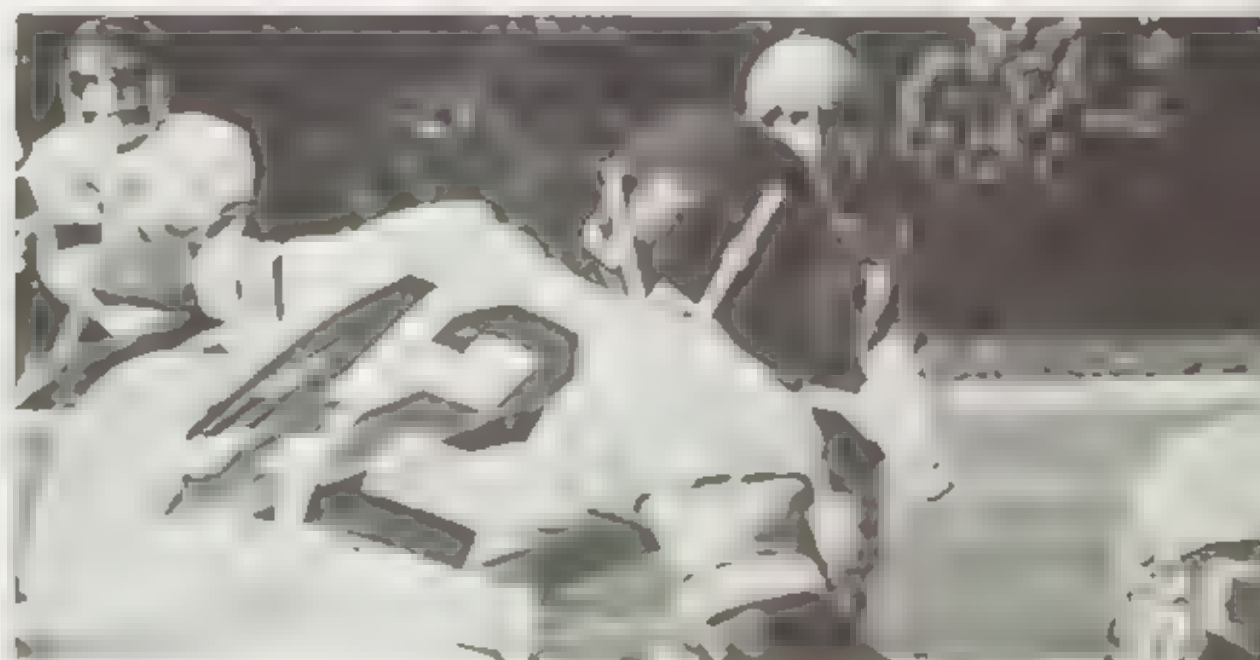

The team made a good showing with a 4-1 league record and went further in the playoffs than the other teams from the league. Much of this year's team will return, promising a strong showing next year.

In the latter part of the 1975-1976 school year, the Student Council of Loyola was abolished by the Council itself. The present student services at Loyola consist of three elected offices. The Head Intramural Commissioner oversees all the activities of Loyola's intramural sports program as well as loaning equipment for student use. The Pep Club Coordinator is in charge of Loyola High's spirit. He maintains the Pep Club and the Cheerleaders, and through his guidance, Loyola spirit is kept high. The Social Coordinator is responsible for Loyola's contact with other schools. His duties run from organizing school dances to setting up student exchanges.

A group of concerned juniors and sophomores have taken the responsibility of once again instituting a student council. The proposed plan entails the establishment of a council conducted by an elected president and vice-president, along with representatives from the school's various activities, as well as class representatives. The present offices which serve the students will be retained. The new plan will hopefully give Loyola a much needed vehicle of student representation.

KARATE CLUB

Now in its eleventh year, the Karate Club, under the guidance of Mr. Robert Buschelman, trains its members in the basic elements of Karate, primarily the Shotokan style. Holding workouts every Tuesday and Thursday after school, the students become acquainted with the ancient, oriental art in three of its numerous facets: as a physical art, as an effective form of self-defense, and as an enjoyable sport.

Proper respect and courtesy for the instructor and the fellow students, strict self-discipline, character development, and traditional decorum are asked of all the members. Misuse of the martial arts is forbidden and a general attitude of peace and nonviolence is stressed by such means as prayer. The club is limited to seniors due to insurance requirements and has a regular season spanning from early December to late February.

FRENCH GERMAN

French, German, Spanish, and Latin comprise the language clubs of Loyola High. The clubs' basic goal is to promote their respective foreign language and culture. In its own way, each club sets out to accomplish this goal. The French Club, under Mrs. Liliane Goczal, frequents current French films and occasionally splurges on an hors d'oeuvre or two. The German Club sets out to enjoy and learn about the German culture at places like Alpine Village and at various exhibits involving the German way of life, all under the direction of Mr. Wolfgang Baur. Miss Margaret Dougherty leads the Spanish Club in its desire to personally involve itself with the Mexican-American and Latin-American cultures. The Junior Classical League introduces its members to the study of the ever-popular Latin and Greek. Miss Judy Thompson brings the members of the Li Hi J.C.L. into contact with other J.C.L. groups in order that they may share both socially and academically their mutual knowledge.

LITURGY

Fr. William Muller, S.J.
Director of Campus Ministry

The Eucharist at Loyola High School is the central event in our Christian worship. Different liturgical experiences are provided to create and sustain Christian community, and while only a small percentage of the student body and faculty attend the weekly Loyola liturgy during the school hours, those who do attend have formed a very special community within the larger Loyola community. For Loyola Christians, the Mass is the moment of hope, reconciliation, commitment, and love — God made manifest to us through one another, because we are the Body of Christ.

What Loyola Will Offer Future Frosh

by Patrick Whelan

Loyola education is a mark of distinction to be envied over others. 2. A catchy phrase coined by administrators to justify early dismissal on Friday and extra holidays. 3. A unique educational base combining academics, athletics, and spiritual growth, to insure a firm foundation for life.

A Loyola education can be defined as many things and its excellence can be attributed to no single person or attribute.

Loyola does not advertise itself as a school offering "more than 100 activities to satisfy all diverse needs of the student." The curriculum contains no 1d need. Business or English P.E. be these academic requirements a low priority in a Loyola schedule. The future holds continued innovation in the basics and advanced courses in mathematics, English, social studies, the sciences, tagtag, arts, fine arts, and theology. Fr. James Flynn, S.J., Assistant Principal of Academic Affairs, hopes to see more seniors going off campus to take college courses. We will be working to add more college credit courses in the Social Sciences Department and would like to see optional math

Sportswriters' Discussion Gives Basketball Insights

Charles Johnson, title author of "The Boxer," a renowned editor at the New York Times, and this year's editor of the Los Angeles Times, both wrote about our Loyola Varsity Basketball team.

Finally, they were coached and trained by the best one not Mike (or the manager), Mr. William Sanchez noted for his coaching as at Las Vegas, sheer talent and knowledge of basketball.

Then, there was Paul "Boxer" Beck, who was probably talking backwards in the second grade. 22 points, 28 points, 32 points can be the numbers associated with the "Boxer" whose success should also be attributed to "Boxer" (continued) Loyola Washington. His agency, which he had founded, and great looking basketball player to make Loyola a future outstanding basketball player. Playing strongside forward, Joe Vitch and his patented jump shot contributed much to the Loyola Varsity team. There was also Mark Sanchez who needed the court, precedence over the surf at east during basketball season and his tremendous cut-kick which allowed the Cubs to gain defense. This past year, the editors and managers were of the highest caliber, which contributed greatly to the fine publications they executed. The 1976-1977 issues of the Loyalist covered a large gamut of new ideas, format, and content. The Editor in Chief, John Kabalin personally saw that each and every issue included a varied layout and a myriad of pertinent articles coordinated with the publication dates and holiday seasons. Tim Sauer served as Managing Editor and he pored during the final layouts and postscript of each issue. He also kept an eye on

Bob Brown and Donald Jong, feature editors, changed the ordinary feature pages to include human interest, highlights of outstanding students, and extraordinary interviews with campus mascots. Kicking off an equally impressive sports page was senior sports editor Adrian Ortega. Ortega placed more emphasis on the junior varsity and frosh and soph teams this year along with the

MONOGRAM CLUB

The Monogram Club is Loyola High School's service organization. Unlike most schools, it is composed of students who have not only lettered in a varsity sport but who have excelled in a campus group or activity in which they belong. Members must maintain a "C" average and pass a screening board. The club's responsibilities carry into all phases of the Loyola community. They can be found in the gym or Xavier Center providing traffic control for rallies and assemblies as well as keeping order at Mass. Early on Saturday mornings, one can find members assisting the faculty in administering entrance exams, and late weekday evenings will uncover unselfish members parking cars and aiding parents on various school functions. Under the direction of Fr. Edward Reese S.J., and the Executive Board, the Monogram Club's actions truly exemplify Loyola Pride.

PALEONTOLOGY SOCIETY

McDermott Robert J.

The Geology-Paleontology Society is Loyola's 13 year old Earth Science Engineering Club. The club meets at least twice a week for a lecture of films that deal with aspects of energy, the mineral industry, earthquakes, some area of paleontology, volcanoes, oceanography, and other facets of the Earth Sciences.

The central activity of our club is the field trip. Every two or three weeks finds from 8 to 30 members in the field. We hike, climb, camp, visit geological sights such as Death Valley, and collect minerals and fossils.

We have visited nearly every major mine or manufacturer of mineral products in the Western United States. We have ranged from Canada to Northern Mexico, from Colorado to the Pacific Ocean.

Club membership is represented by all four years of students at Loyola. What is best of all is the adventure of exploring this grand, God-given land of ours and the fine comradery these activities inspire!

PEP CLUB

Spirit is an essential factor in the Loyola community. The Loyola High Pep Club, under the direction of Fr. Mario Prietto, S.J., is the spark that ignites the Cub spirit. Enthusiastic rallies, artistic banners, and vivacious Pep Club members provide Loyola with the necessary inspiration.

Cathy Dunne, Victor Hawley, Cathy Collins, Casey Griffin, Evonne Hernandez, Gino Ferrare, Diane Barone, Francois Harvey.
Camie Holt, Steve Watson, Barbie Thompson, K Howe,

The Loyola High cheerleaders, led by Gino Ferrare, promote the Cub spirit at rallies and games. Their zealous cheers lead the student body in support of all athletic events.

SPEECH AND...

Loyola High School's Speech and Debate Team program teaches its members public speaking and debating techniques. The members compete in tournaments with member schools of the Southern California Speech Association, as well as other independent tournaments and contests. Under the direction of moderator Mike Tannatt and coach Dean Mellor, many Loyola students have placed well and have been victorious in these tournaments.

1976 was a year of building for the Water Polo program at Loyola. Led by Captain Jerry Nagle the team played a strong schedule and did well against its strong competition. With the instruction and encouragement of the new coach Fr. Francis Conn, it progressed steadily. Although the team was young and inexperienced, the players' enthusiastic spirit helped to keep them on top of every game.

WINDOWPANES

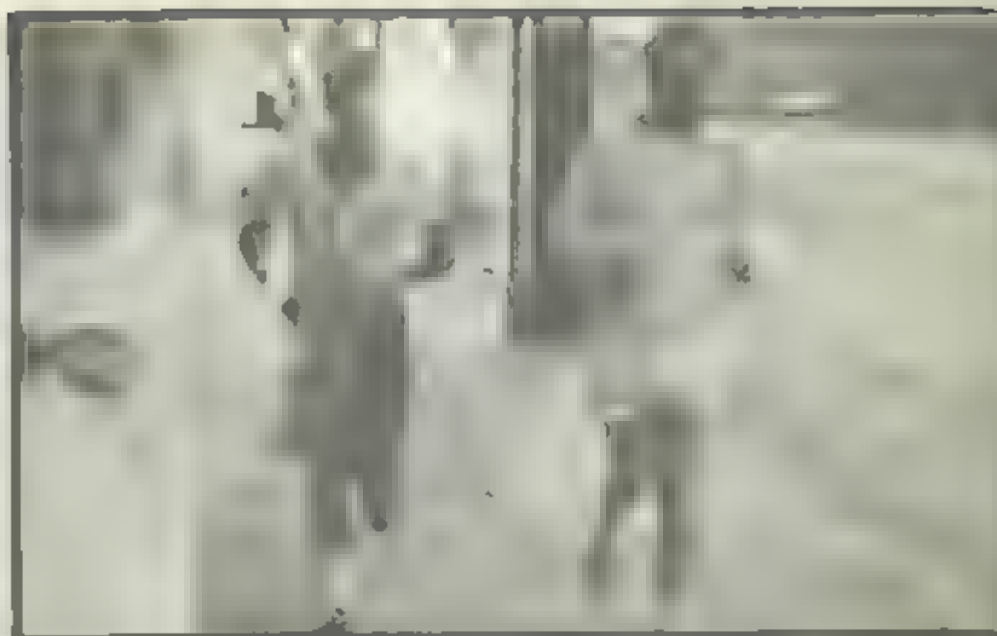

David Pascale, Lee O'Connor, Pat Sinclair
Standing: Roy Wensley, Mr. Caldwell

Windowpanes, the literary magazine of Loyola High School, was initiated in 1965 under the title of The Glass. The magazine evolved into Windowpanes and made steady progress until last year, when, due to student apathy, it was inactive. This year, it has been revived with the full enthusiasm it possessed in past years. Windowpanes is a representative of the Loyola student body's creative talents. It encompasses all aspects of these talents, including poetry, short stories, photography, and artwork. This year's staff includes Mr. Terry Caldwell, moderator; Pat Sinclair, editor-in-chief; Lee O'Connor, assistant editor; Roy Wensley, poetry editor; Dave Pascale, short story editor, and Dave Olivas, art editor.

The Wizard of Oz:

Why anybody can have a brain, that's a very mediocre commodity. Every puccininnous creature that crawls on the earth or slinks through slimy seas has a brain. Back where I come from we have universities, seats of great learning where men go to become great thinkers and when they come out, they think deep thoughts and with no more brains then you have. BUT they have one thing that you haven't got — a diploma. Therefore, by the virtue of the authority invested in me by the Universatatus Absurdus E. Thank You

Mrs. Pollack, Mrs. Nicholson, Mrs. Duran, Fr. Reese, S.J., Mr. Cuadra, Marsh Hollenberg, Dan "Oly" Olivas, Fr. Filice, S.J. (for his generosity concerning our deficit), Fr. Rudolph, S.J. (for paying the bills), Mr. and Mrs. Julio Aviles, Bishop James D. Erps, S.J., Walsworth Publishing Company, and Publishers Press. A special thank you to Bill Burg and St. Ignatius Prep for getting us started. You're right, Burg - paste-up is a pain!

It has long been a tradition of the El Camino to dedicate the yearbook to the teacher or administrator to whom the entire student body is both deeply and personally indebted. Fr. Colosimo, S.J., was a wise and thoughtful choice. Mr. Quinlan, Fr. Koch, S.J., Mrs. Pollock, all much discussed and much applauded choices. But in order to keep in step with this annual, the dedication must be decidedly different.

A yearbook should be representative of the year it is published. That is its sole purpose. In dedicating a yearbook, therefore, it is obligatory to follow this vein; the dedication should be representative of the most important aspect of the school year.

That is why this sixtieth volume of the El Camino is dedicated to you: the student, the teacher, the administrator, the parent, all persons who are a part of the Loyola High School community. Because anyone who cares for Loyola deserves to be noticed, to be applauded. And without you, this year would not have been the same.

Bully Big Fella,
Your extremely magnificent masculine figure has turned us on throughout the year and thank you.
